

The relationship between the variable and the predicted probability

